■ Information for Students

(Information below can be adapted and supplemented as necessary.)

Performance on this program will be evaluated on the basis of a paper and your supervisor/sponsor reports. Each of these elements will carry 50% of the grade.

Deadlines in this industry are vital. In keeping with these constraints, strict deadlines will be observed on these projects. No papers will be accepted past noon on the deadline dates. No exceptions, no excuses. These topics are supplied well in advance to enable you to cope with this.

To reiterate: No paper — no marks.

Please note:

In the event that the client expresses extreme dissatisfaction with a student's performance and the student fails to meet the client's expectations by the end of Week 3 of the program, the student will be removed from this internship location. A suitable replacement internship will be sought but not guaranteed. Marks will be prorated accordingly (33.3% to the 50% supervisor/sponsor reports will go toward the initial internship).

■ Assignment Details

Students will be expected to work with their sponsors for four working days each week from Tuesday, March 21 to Friday, May 19.

Any internship absence for any reason must be communicated to your sponsor and BCIT faculty advisor. BCIT attendance requirements will be strictly enforced.

■ Project Details

You are required to write a descriptive and evaluative paper on your sponsor's business.

Due Date: May 15, 2006, Monday (Noon). Penalties will be applied to late papers.

Length: Maximum 20 pages, illustrated and bound.

Topic: Description of your sponsor's business and its organizational structure. Describe your role, in detail. An evaluative description of any operational system that you can observe from your position, together with a strategic recommendation on any improvements you might be able to propose for your sponsor's operation. This report may be requested by your sponsor.

Format: Your choice. Visual and written creativity is highly encouraged.

The final grading (valued at 50%) will consist of formal written supervisor/sponsor evaluations. These will be requested after May 12, 2006. Candid comments will be encouraged from immediate supervisors on:

FACULTY SUPERVISION

The role of the Faculty Advisor is to ensure that the student is benefiting from the exposure to the sponsor and that the sponsor is deriving some value from the student's presence. Only problems that you cannot solve independently should be relayed to the Advisor.

Be Realistic: You are not being called in to run the sponsor's business. You may be required to perform menial tasks from time-to-time. Be assured that most Vice Presidents also file occasionally. Work willingly and keep your eyes open for more challenging tasks. Negotiate a learning contract with your sponsor once you are clear what you want to learn.

Be Curious: Ask questions of everybody. Show an interest in your sponsor's business. Once you earn your sponsor's confidence you will be given more challenging assignments. Volunteer to do a bit more than you are asked.

■ Project Details (cont'd.)

Be A Perfectionist: You are entering a detail-oriented field. Check constantly for spelling, punctuation, grammatical, and mathematical errors. Double-check everything you do. Neatness counts.

Do Not Procrastinate: If you are given a task to complete, do it now! You will live and die by deadlines.

Use Initiative: Empathy is not an empty word. Try to understand how the business you are involved with builds and is nurtured. See if you can help it on its way.

Be Yourself: It will seem strange and new at first but you will soon gain confidence. Have faith in your ability and practice your human relations skills. You will soon fit in.
